

Jonas Zeller

Course: Getting-started Statistics

Doctoral Student in Finance

Institut für Finanzmanagement, Universität Bern

MSc in Economics, Universität Bern

Jonas Zeller, born in 1982, studied finance and economics at the Universität Bern. After an internship in the Economic Research Department at Credit Suisse, Zürich, he joined the Institut für Finanzmanagement in 2006 where he currently works as a doctoral student and teaching assistant. In 2009 he spent a semester at the Simon Graduate School of Business, University of Rochester, New York.

Zeller has research and teaching interests in corporate governance, capital markets, and corporate finance. His PhD thesis investigates the effect of corporate aging on firm performance. Zeller has won an award for the best Masters Degree at the Business, Economics and Social Science Faculty at the Universität Bern in 2008.